

Local Government Emergency Management: "When Disaster Strikes, Are You Ready?"

Tuesday, October 29th, 2019

Henderson County Emergency Services,
Hendersonville, NC

10:00 AM to 3:15 PM (Check-in starts at 9:30 AM)

From wildfires to ice storms to mudslides to yes, even hurricanes, western North Carolina has experienced a myriad of natural disasters. This workshop will provide information on local government legal authorities during an emergency event, disaster funding sources including the FEMA reimbursement process, and disaster preparedness best practices such as prepositioning contracts consistent with federal procurement requirements. These topics are relevant for all local government elected officials and personnel who may be involved in assisting their community to prepare for, respond to, and recover from a disaster when, not if, the next one strikes. This workshop will be taught by Norma Houston from UNC's School of Government.

Registration: Registration for this program is $60.00 and includes lunch. You may register with the following link:

https://wcupg.wcu.edu/C20252_ustores/web/classic/product_detail.jsp?PRODUCTID=132&SINGLESTORE=true

Registration ends Tuesday, October 22nd, 2019, or when the class reaches capacity (60 attendees).

Confirmations will be sent via email to the email address used for registration.

Location: This workshop will be hosted at the Henderson County Emergency Services building in Hendersonville, NC.

*Henderson County Emergency Services
2529 Asheville Highway
Hendersonville, NC 28791*

Local Government
Training Program

For additional information contact LGTP director Bob Boylan at rboylan@wcu.edu or (828) 227-3442.